Panelists discuss initial considerations for your businesses as consumers re-enter the world. Unique issues to consider include qualifying consumers who were recently unemployed or underemployed, addressing forthcoming consumer bankruptcies, to having policies and procedures in place for the future. Hear what panelists immersed in these issues think you should be doing now, to be ready for these emerging issues.

This webinar is presented in conjunction with the Financial Service Centers of America (FiSCA). Established in 1987, FiSCA is the oldest national trade organization representing the nation's financial service center providers. Financial service centers offer a wide array of critical financial services to millions of Americans including check cashing, money transfers, prepaid cards, money orders, bill payments and small dollar, short-term loans. FiSCA is the industry's leading voice in the corridors of government in Washington, DC and throughout the country, ensuring that the voices of operators and customers alike are heard by lawmakers and policymakers.
