

Challenges in Data Security and Regulatory Compliance

July 22, 2025 | Megan Nicholls

Although FinTech companies offer immeasurable advantages to the marketplace, at the same time they also bring challenges, with the most prominent being regulatory compliance with consumer data protection requirements. Because most fintechs carry a lot of sensitive data this can expose them to risks. The panelists for this session will discuss the evolving regulatory landscape and how that requires an organization to constantly reevaluate its compliance protocols to stay current with these ever-changing requirements. The session will also examine how to update data security protocols to comply with mitigation requirements and safeguarding sensitive data.
